

The Truth is in the Way

In Chinese Medicine the English Spelling is “Wei” Meaning the “Surface of the Human Body”

A blessing to all mankind would be to leave this earth “suddenly, painlessly and after a long and healthy life”.

Ignoring early symptoms and simple changes that could grant that health and longevity wish, healthcare today is focusing on a new generation of strategies and imaging devices to probe deeper into the body to find the results of years of destruction; the signs of late stage, chronic disease. The strategy of delving deep onto the body represents the “seek- and-destroy, win- or-lose, live-or -die” healthcare strategy we have all learned to accept as the best way to manage our health.

Five thousand years of Chinese Medicine Principles has shown us that all disease begins at the surface and works its way into the depths of the human biology. This can happen within hours or days, like flu, or within decades; like cancer, diabetes and heart disease. What do humans really prefer, but only dream about? Who of us have not at some time, wished that we could step into a special space where our bodies could be safely scanned to reveal any potential future health problems so that we could fix them and have a chance to live a long and healthy life?

Our skin, the largest organ of our body, holds the secrets, but our human eyes cannot see them. Because we cannot see them, all we see is a covering that hides what is inside. Enters X-Ray, with all its potential harm, but lets us “look inside”, when the real truth has it’s beginnings on the outside. The truth is in the “Wei”

Now enters Thermal Infrared Imaging or Thermography, which has the “eyes” to safely see what we cannot. It has now become universally accepted that the cascading progression of nearly all diseases begin with inflammation, a “thermally” active biological process, easily seen with infrared.

Where does “Thermography” fit in? It fits in at the beginning. X-Rays, MRI, CT all fit in at the later stages. Beginning or the end, which fits more into your personal health care plan?

The healthy blessing of “painless and long life” can be realized with prevention and with the assistance of the “beginning” technology of infrared. Are you waiting for an invitation?

We invite you to see your health and longevity possibilities in a different way.
